Household rules Membership

- The member must be in possession of a UnionCard and has paid the Break-Even Association Fee, of which both can be bought at the DMS online portal. If the member fails to comply, they will not be recognized as a member and will not be permitted to attend classes and/or activities.
- Any fines issued to Break-Even as a result of the member not having paid the DMS fees as mentioned in the first point, will be forwarded to the member. The member has 7 days to pay for the fine after the announcement thereof.
- The member is obliged to pay for the Break-Even contribution fee, once per semester. The fee must be paid if the member is part of the official member list at any point during the semester.
- To end a membership, the member must write an email of their un-enrollment to the board. The member is not officially un-enrolled until the board confirms their unenrollment through a notification to the member via email.
- A membership can only be ended once all financial obligations (including DMS fines) have been met by the member.
- If a member has an open standing debt at Break-Even for more than half a year, they will no longer receive sponsorship and nothing will be paid for them in advance. The board can then also decide to pursue an official complaint through the Student Union with the help of Umbrella Association Apollo.
- The member is obliged to update the board about changes in their contact details, e.g. address, phone number, bank information, etc.
- If a member cannot attend classes due to any circumstances and would like to request a pardon for paying the contribution fees, they can do so by contacting the board. The board will then decide if this request is granted.
- By becoming a member at Break-Even, the member agrees that their personal data is processed by the board, Umbrella Association Apollo (in case this is needed and discussed with said member), and the Student Union.

In-class behavior

- The members attend classes at their own risk. All injuries and/or damages resulting from attending a Break-Even class or activity are NOT Break-Even's responsibility. All members are personally responsible for their own actions during classes and/or activities.
- If a member would like to bring a friend into class, they are obliged to ask for permission from the board about the fact. If that friend would like to attend more than two (2) classes per semester, then they are obliged to apply for a full membership at Break-Even.
- The board may, at any given time, remove people from the class and/or activity without having to explain their decision of doing so.

General

- Members are not allowed to operate under the Break-Even name or use the logo without the board's written consent.
- Members who fail to comply with these household rules will not be granted access to any and all Break-Even classes and activities and their membership will be terminated. Their right to demand a return for their contribution is thereby nullified.
- In case the member feels uncomfortable or finds themselves in a difficult situation within the association where they do not feel safe enough to approach the board, they can make use of the Confidential Contact Person (CCP) of the association, who is obligated to keep this matter private and is allowed to take actions in case needed.

- These rules may be changed in a GMA. Via majority vote of the members present at the GMA.

My name is _____ and I hereby declare I have read and agree to complying to the Break-Even household rules. I also declare that the information filled in above is complete and truthful.

Lastly, and most importantly, I hereby declare that I am ready to use the cool moves I learned at Break-Even to impress my fellow crew members and other friends!
